FREESTANDING STEEL MEZZANINE

Mezzanine floors are being used more often in warehouse and distribution centres to make the most of valuable unused space for general storage and to support automated material handling equipment.

It creates invaluable extra floor space; increasing the amount of space available. It can be as small or as large as you like, be one, two or three tiers high, have standard or special staircases, lifts or access gates, handrails or partitioning barriers, wood or steel decking, be encased, fitted with lighting and sprinklers.

This vast array of options ensures we deliver a solution to meet your exact needs, whether it be a stand-alone or integrated requirement.
